Introduction

The objective of this project is to cluster the Restaurants in Pune City (India) based on their ratings, cuisine and prices.
This project will help the visitors and residents of the city to select the restaurants according to their needs, the ones which are suitable to them.
Pune is the city where you can find a large number of foodies, who always are in search of good food.They will surely benefit from this project.
Not only people, but this project can also help businesses who are about to invest in a restaurant or food chain.